

CHICAGO

Blackhawks

The McDonough years

In the 10 years before John McDonough was named the club's president in 2007, average number of wins per season was 30.3, average points was 74.3 and the team made the playoffs only twice. Since* then, average wins increased to 46.4, average points to 102.6 and the Blackhawks won the

* The 2012-'13 season was shortened to 48 games due to a lockout. Average wins and points since 2007 exclude this season.

From 1996-99, games still ended in ties. From 1999-2004, the league awarded a point for a tie or an overtime loss. From 2005-present, games are decided in overtime or a shootout. The loser still gets 1 standings point.

Sources: hockeydb.com, ESPN.com, National Hockey League

Compiled by John Dietz
jdietz@dailyherald.com

Graphic by Tim Broderick
tbroderick@dailyherald.com

CHICAGO DAILY HERALD